Atlantic. In all there were 110 children who were made joyous by the bounty of the two cabin passengers. A generous Christmas dinner was served and the ship's band played in the steerage quarters at Christmas afternoon.

Many races were mingled in the immigrant throng-Russians, Bohemians, Silvas, Dutch, Germans, Slovaks and Magyars. During the Christmas colebrated States Court, has opened up what promises to be a big sensation. The Federal Building was alive, to-day, with rumors of forthcoming developments with respect to a systematic at-tempt to bribe the jury. Rice was arrested, last night, by an agent of the Department of Justice, on a warrant issued by Judge Ray. The cause of his arrest was a mystery until to-day.

It has been tearned that while Rice

When the superseding indictment was found somebody in the United States District-Attorney's office forgot to change the practically free on his own recognizance since Nov. 30, Intimations received by the United Intimations received by the United States authorities prompted them to put agents on the trail of Rice. It is said be was seen some time this week in consultation with George J. Byrne, who is out on ball after his arrest last week an a charge of trying to bribe one of the Scheftels jurors.

All of counsel for the Scheftels defendants had a long conference with Judge Ray this morning at the Court's puggestion.

the marshal."

It was learned that the rearrest had a bearing on the sileged attempt to tamper with the jury. The first knowledge of this was made public after Frederick S. Dale, one of the jurors, had informed the District-Attorney and the Court that Byrne, who has an office in the same building with him, had offered him $1,000 if he would hold out for the acquittal of the defendants in the Scheftels case.

United States Marshal Henkel's men caught Rice with Sol Myers, his attorney, outside No. 115 Broadway. Both Rice and Myers pronounced the arrest "outrageous" and refused to accompany the marshals until they had seen the warrant.

CHILDREN SAVED AT FIRE.

No. 6518 New Utrecht avenue, Brooklyn, to-day gave a frightening quarter-hour to Mrs. Pasquale Scalvo, who a few minutes before had gone marketing. leaving her three bables in her apart ment over the Scalvos' wall paper fac-tory next door. After fiften minutes of Frantic appeals to firemen she learned that the children had been taken out just before the flames spread from the paint shop by her brothers-in-law, Willam and Orenzo Guillant.

The fire, which was caused by the ex-plemen of a heazine tank, destroyed both stores.

Weight 8-4 Carat Diamond RINGS

During the past 30 years we have by personal visits and cable kept in close touch with the world's Diamond market at Amsterdam and been in many "Melon" cuttings; the most notable was during the Panic of 1997, when many of our customers bought Diamonds that would yield them a big profit to-day. Now comes along a better deal which we have just concluded. Without going into detail we now offer for your inspection tray after tray of single stone Diamond Rings. The average weight is three-quarters of a caratesch. Some weigh more, others a triffe less, but on account of the "Expread" cutting nearly every one looks to weigh at least a carat. The direct callers have their pick at $22 cach. Without saying what a retail Dealer would charge for Rings like these, take one to any Wholesale Dealer or importer and if he will truthfully say that he will duplicate it in less of one or one hundred for less than $42.00 the money will be retunded. Our agreement given at the time of Sale provides for the return of the money if desired for any cause, any time within one year. No mail orders can be filled or dealers supplied.

We not sach Ring in an expense.

NOTE We put such Ring in an expensive Turquois Blue Vellew Case with an outside . How to match autique for the control without extra charge. Here are a few other Specials of which we have no duplicates. They are equally as cheap, quality con-sidered.

Last two days of this sale of Apparel for Misses and Girls Friday & Saturday—December 29th & 30th

The suits and coats and dresses in this sale are so refreshingly new and stylish, and are marked so very much below former prices, that instead of your having to be content with something less pretentious than you want, you are far more likely to get a handsomer garment than you ever dreamed of, at a price which will be even less than you are prepared to pay. We have just treated former prices with a relentless hand, and the economies now open to you are remarkably attractive.

Tomorrow and Saturday this sale of Women's Winter Apparel will witness still further reductions

We realize that this is a season when price considerations take precedence over one's requirements, and that only the most liberal economies will be of interest to the large majority of women. With this in mind, reductions tomorrow and Saturday have been carried well below the customary ratio of economy in pre-inventory offerings, and although quantities are limited the values constitute one of the most remarkable opportunities ever announced.
